American & Foreign Patents.

R H. EDDY,

SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

Late Agent of the U S Patent Office Washington (under the Act of 1836.)

76 Stat Street, opposite Kilby Street, BOSTON

AFTER an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years continues to secure Patents in the United States also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries Caveats, Specifications Bonds Assignments and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms and with dispatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of Patents or Inventions—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar Assignments recorded at Washington

The Agency is not only the largest in New England but through it inventors have advantages for securing Patents, of ascertaining the patentability of inventions unsurpassed by if not immeasurably superior to any which can be offered them elsewhere The testimonials below given prove that none is more successful at the Patent Office than the subscriber and as success is the best proof of advantages and ability he would add that the abundant reason to believe, and can prove that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents

Those besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe render him able beyond question to offer superior facilities for obtaining Patents

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there are here saved inventors

TESTIMONIALS

"I regard Mr Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse" CHARLES MASON Commissioner of Patents

I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure patents as early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office EDMUND BURKE Late Commissioner of Patents

Mr R H Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications on all but ONE of which patents have been granted and that is now pending such unmistakeable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend my inventors to apply to him to procure their patents as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges JOHN TAGGART

During eight months, the subscriber in course of his large practice made on twice rejected applications SIXTEEN APPEALS and WON ONE of which was decided in his favor by the Commissioner of Patents. R H EDDY

THE NEWYORK TRIBUNE.

LARGE PREMIUMS

TO OUR FRIENDS

Hitherto we have never offered any one a premium for helping to extend the circulation of THE TRIBUNE We have printed the cheapest newspaper considering the outlay by which it is produced that was ever issued in any country selling it for little more than the cost of the white paper, have employed no agents to canvass for subscribers and have all need no compensation (beyond a copy of our paper) to any of the thousands of generous friends who have annually taken care that the number of copies of our several issues is regulated in their respective neighborhoods should it at least maintained and if possible increased We have been sparing even of verbal thanks to these friends but have none the less realized the fullness of our obligation for their earnest unselfish painstaking, persistent efforts

We propose for the present season only—in view of the hardness of the times and the fact that we are enabled to buy white paper somewhat cheaper than we have hitherto done or can hope to be after the close of the War—to make some small acknowledgment—not much a recompense as a token of kind remembrance—to those friends who shall see fit to extend themselves to obtain new subscriptions or other orders or renewals to our Weekly and Semi Weekly editions Well it know that we could offer anything of similar value more generally acceptable and useful than a Gold Pen of the best quality and finish We propose therefore, to forward to each person who, during the two months ensuing, shall send us subscriptions and payment for THE TRIBUNE as follows

IRON-CLAD STEAMERS

NAVY DEPARTMENT, Washington February 21 1862

THE Navy Department will until the 20th of March next, receive propositions for the complete construction and equipment of iron clad vessels for river harbor and coast defence

These vessels with the exception of those for the Mississippi river and its tributaries, will be propelled by screws those for the Mississippi river and tributaries may be propelled by paddle wheels.—The hulls will be either wholly of iron (which would be preferred) or of iron and wood combined, as the propositors may consider most suitable for the object proposed but their sides and decks must be protected with an iron armament sufficient to resist the heaviest shot and shells

The vessels for the Mississippi river and its tributaries are not to draw more than six feet, water when fully equipped and armed at which draft they are to be able to maintain a permanent speed of nine knots per hour in still water, and carry sufficient coal in the bunkers for six days steaming at that speed Their armament will consist of not less than six thirteen inch guns

The vessels for harbor defence are not to draw more than twelve feet water when fully equipped and armed at which draft they are to be able to maintain a permanent speed of ten knots per hour in smooth water and carry sufficient coal in the bunkers for seven days steaming at that speed—The armament will consist of not less than from two to four eleven inch guns

The vessels for coast defence are not to draw more than twenty feet water when fully equipped and armed at which draft they are to be able to maintain a permanent speed of fifteen knots per hour at sea, and carry sufficient coal in the bunkers for twelve days steaming at that speed Their armament will consist of one or two fifteen or twenty inch guns

The guns of the vessels for harbor and coast defence are to train to all points of the compass without change in the vessel's position

The proposition must state the number of vessels subject to the election of the Department which the party proposes to furnish complete in every respect embracing armour plating, steam machinery and equipments of all kinds, ready for service except only the ordnance and ordnance stores and provisions the proposition must be accompanied by drawings and specifications, drawings, and models such character that the work could be executed from them

The place of delivery must be stated the time within which the vessel or vessels are to be completed and also the total sum to be paid for each

It will be stipulated in the contract that one fifth the total amount will be retained by the Government until sixty days after the reception of the vessel in order to give it a final, the remaining payments being made with due regard to the proper performance and progress of the work the contract will also embrace forfeitures for failure to perform the conditions specified

Bids must be accompanied by the guarantee required by law that if a contract is awarded it will be promptly executed, and the names of the parties who are to become the sureties to the amount of the face of the contract will also be stated

The Department will consider any other propositions that may be presented in which the draft of water above mined is not exceeded

The Department will be at liberty to accept or reject any or all the propositions. 2aw.tw f27

3 The North British Review, (Free Church)

4 The Westminster Review, (Liberal)

5 Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine, (Tory)

The present critical state of European affairs will render these publications unusually interesting during the forthcoming year. They will occupy a middle ground between the hastily written newspaper items, crude speculations and alarming rumors of the daily Journal and the ponderous Tome of the future historian written after the living interest and excitement of the great political interests of the time shall have passed away It is to these Periodicals that readers must look for the only really intelligible and reliable history of current events and as such in addition to their well established literary scientific and theological character we urge them upon the consideration of the reading public

The receipt of Advance Sheets from the British publishers gives additional value to these Republications inasmuch as they can now be placed in the hands of subscribers about as soon as the original editions

In Peace or War, on land or sea,
Our flag, the aegis of the free,
Bright emblem of Columbia's glory!
Shall tell to coming years the story,
How, stout of heart, and strong of hand,
The patriots of our native land
Bore it, the nation's hope and life,
On tented field, 'mid fearful strife,
Still on! 'till through the sulphurous cloud
It broke in triumph, Treason's shroud!

INGRAINED LOVERS OF SLAVERY No charge against the democratic party and its organs has been more indignantly repelled than that of being a pro-slavery party The northern democratic papers have uniformly spouted the idea, and have nearly all of them deplored the existance of slavery, as an evil which ought to be got rid of, but which our constitutional obligations prevent us from interfering with Facts, however, would seem to show that many of the democratic leaders and newspaper writers are really friends of slavery,—feeling in their hearts a preference for that system of labor, and having no desire to see it abolished It is not unfair to infer this from the uniform hostility which they exhibit to any and every form of emancipation Not only do they oppose unconstitutional abolition in the States by the General government, but they are equally averse to constitutional abolition in the District of Columbia—to constitutional prohibition of slavery in the Territories—to immediate abolition by the States themselves,—or to gradual emancipation by the States We hear very general objections from this class of papers to the President's proposition, for Congress to make an offer of some aid to any State which will institute a system of gradual emancipation They would not even have our government aid in converting one Slave State into a free State They object to compensating slave owners to any extent, because it would cost an immense sum to pay the full value of all the slaves—ignoring the fact that the President does not propose any such thing — This disposition, to be sure, is not manifested by all the democratic papers There are many honorable exceptions But there is a large class, embracing, perhaps a majority in the Northern States which now as heretofore, manifest a decided preference for slavery per se, and oppose any and every measure calculated to damage the institution We might reasonably expect this from the class of papers which in this State is represented by the Sinn Democrat, Machias Union &c, but we confess to disappointment in seeing in the Boston Post, (a paper which has so loyally supported the government against the slaveholding traitors) a decided opposition even to a gradual emancipation

THE MANASSES EVACUATION We are not so sanguine as many that the retreat from Manassas is a flight of the enemy The rebel armies in Virginia, although undoubtedly much weakened and demoralized, are still far too powerful to give up that great State without a struggle. It is a vital point for the Confederacy to retain If Virginia is abandoned, the Carolinas must be given up, and the cause of the rebellion would then be ruined beyond redemption A stand will be made—and upon some line where the rebel troops will be so concentrated that the whole force can be easily handled in a great battle, and with the hope that in one grand desperate conflict, with our army at a distance from its supplies, and where it is difficult to move our heavy ordnance, a great victory may be obtained, which shall compensate for all their defeats. We believe that the Confederate leaders have some such plan as this—and hope that our military leaders will not, in the flush of recent victories, underrate either the strength or the determination of their opponents It is said that no stronger position can be taken by the rebels than that of Manassas This is true—and yet a position of less natural strength, but further advanced into their own country, and at a greater distance from our base of operations, may be a better one for them We have no fear of defeat in an engagement upon anything like equal terms—but the enemy's strategy is to get us into a position where, although we may be even superior in force, he can yet fight us at a disadvantage.

Prentice asks, does anybody in the South hear now the echoes of "the roars of laughter" with which the gibbering rebels at Montgomery greeted President Lincoln's proclamation of last April!

The longest play ever the Confederacy was called "Lady Polk." It lasted his Hyperbole, General Polk. It bored.

It is enough to make the blood boil in every loyal bosom, to read the evidences of gross incompetency, if not the blackest treachery, which culminate in regard to the recent disgraceful disaster to our navy in Hampton Roads After all the immense and lavish expenditure of our government to establish an overwhelming naval force at Fortress Monroe, it is bitterly humiliating to see the gross mismanagement which has prevailed Read the following from the Tribune

We are informed that the officers of the lost vessels, the Cumberland and Congress, were, and had for some time past, been fully alive to their danger, not only from an attack by the Merrimac, but by the Yorktown and Jamestown. These two armed steamers had been shut up in James River for many weeks by the Cumberland and Congress, two old sailing vessels, lying off Newport News Point, in a position where the current is at times so strong that they could not get springs on their cables and might have been raked by the steamers at pleasure, without the ability to bring their broadsides to bear. Had they been attacked by these steamers only, the opinion among Navy officers is that they would have been beaten, and that, leaving the Merrimac out of the question, it was a capital blunder to expose these vessels to such a hazard — Could the rebels have been assured that our steam-vessels would be quietly laid up on sand banks, as they were, there is no doubt but that the Yorktown and Jamestown would have made an attack weeks ago.

Not only had no means been adopted to secure the safety of these vessels, but the Navy Department, as well as the people, seem to have been induced by the statements in the Rebel papers to believe that the Merrimac was a failure, and consequently to make no special preparation for her These statements were put forth very ingeniously. The Norfolk Day Book making them, and the Richmond papers repeating, while they lamented that the indiscretion of the Norfolk journals had made known to the Northern enemy so great a disaster to their cause Still, in the face of news received on Friday at Fortress Monroe that the Merrimac, on Thursday morning, was lying near the Norfolk Navy-Yard, with her flags flying and a crew on board, it is difficult to understand how our principal steamers in the Roads were caught without steam up and without pilots

All these vessels had been stripped of officers and some of them of their crews, to man the light draught vessels with which Commodore Goldsborough accompanied the Burnside Expedition Thus it happened that the Congress was manned by companies of the Naval Brigade, and we are told that but two Lieutenants were left on the Minnesota The surprise seems to have been complete, and the consequences would have been terrible had not the little Monitor, avessel not belonging to the Government but to the contractor who built her, arrived just as she did, and proved herself the miracle that she is

RAILWAY MATTERS IN THE PROVINCES The report of the New Brunswick Railway Commissioners for 1861 shows that the road from St John to Schediac, (something over 100 miles), has cost $4,548,000, or $42,000 per mile, and that the net income ("surplus revenue") for the past year has been $26 432, or less than one per cent. on the capital thus far expended. The surplus of 1860 was $41,985 The decrease is attributed to "the heavy snows of last winter, which added greatly to the running expenses, the depressed state of business in the Provinces, and the troubles in the neighboring States" But for these causes a large increase was expected

MCCLELLAN ON SLAVERY The Washington correspondent of the New York Post makes the following interesting statement

"I was yesterday informed by one of General McClellan's most intimate friends that he approves most heartily the President's emancipation proclamation, and that he has been very much misunderstood by the country generally as to his views on the slavery question, as it connects itself with the war This friend asserts that General McClellan believes that the country will see no lasting peace until slavery is destroyed, and that he is not a pro-slavery man as some persons have stated It is further said of him, that as a soldier he has been careful of his speech on all such matters, but that he has intended that no officer of the Potomac army shall even return a fugitive slave, and that the few isolated cases which have occurred have not met with his approbation"

OldGripe is in trouble It has been the pride of his life that no man could delude, cheat or circumvent him. "I defy anybody to impose on me," said Gripe "What do you think of Uncle Sam's tax bill?" inquired Quilp, "technically, tax's an 'imposition,' you know" "Yes," growled the miser, "so it is—an infernal imposition! It's well named, sir If I had known I was going to cost so much to save the country, I would have sold out my stock in it six months ago The tax bill be ——" Gripe is getting profane —Post

SECESSION ABROAD —"Malakoff," the Paris correspondent of the New York Times, writes in a recent letter —

"Mr Slidell has taken a handsome and extensive suit of apartments in a new house on the Champs Elysees, while Mr Eustis is also handsomely located in the Rue de Rivoli I understand that, in view of the little sympathy shown for their cause by the Governments of France and England, the secession agents have fixed upon the following line of conduct They will remain till June, or till the cotton crisis of the present year is at its height, and then, if they see no probability of an intervention, to return home, shut themselves up by passing a high tariff bill, and then wait for England and France to come to them, which they certainly think they will, for it seems an impossibility to chase the illusion from a Southerner's mind that cotton is king It does, indeed appear incredible, but up to within ten days, up to the time when the Emperor Napoleon and the English Parliament declared against intervention, the Southern agents and the Southern politicians abroad, notwithstanding their stereotyped boast that all the statesmanship of America is in the South, firmly believed that France and England, but at least England, was going to declare at the opening of Parliament in favor of an intervention. You may judge how much the destruction of this illusion has cost them Both at London and Paris the Southern agents have hired men, mostly Ministerial employees, to give them information as to the sentiments of the two Governments; and these men, knowing that good news is better paid for than bad, took care most probably to furnish only the first

Every one here recognizes that secession is dead in Europe Sheffield and Lyons are making just now more of a row than Manchester and Rouen, and people all at once begin to see that there are other suffering interests besides cotton. From present indications we should not be surprised to see France and England disclaim indirectly for the Union, as the shortest road for bringing about a revival of perishing commerce.

There is a strong feeling growing up, also, against the Confederate privateers, because it is feared that they may, on the high seas, rob and destroy the ships and crews of neutral owners. The journals are demanding a guarantee against such a contingency

M. Thouvenel emphatically denies that the French Government in July last, or at any other time, gave encouragement to the Southern Commissioners or the Southern Convention for the establishment of the Southern Confederacy."

"ARTEMAS" COMING Our readers will see by a notice in another column that Mr Chas F Browne, of New York city, a gentleman well known as the most popular humorous writer of the day, under the nom de plume of "Artemas Ward;" has been engaged to deliver his celebrated lecture, entitled "Children in the Wood", at Norombega Hall, on Tuesday evening next Mr Browne needs no introduction from us, as the inimitable letters of "A Ward" have been copied into every paper in the civilized world, and the "Wacks Figgers" of the "Great American showman" are familiar wherever the English language is known and read "Children in the Wood" is a title skillfully made use of by the lecturer as a medium for giving all the current topics and institutions of the day some very hard hits, so that those who go with the expectation of hearing the history of those interesting juveniles rehearsed, it is quite needless to say will probably be disappointed, as the "babes" are utterly flouted by the lecturer, who we have understood, proceeds in the coolest manner possible to treat of every other known topic

SMITH'S PANORAMA OF THE WAR These splendid paintings have had great success at Oldtown and Orono We have already given our opinion as to the superiority of the paintings Dr Allen of Orono, who was in the battle of Bull Run, not only commends the painting as a work of art, but says the scenes of that battle are very correct and striking representations The work is to be exhibited at Ellsworth this evening

CHILD SUFFOCATED Mr Skillings and wife of Gorham started on Thursday of last week to visit some friends in the neighboring town, taking their infant child with them On the way they called at a house, and the child being asleep, was placed on a bed When they went for their child, it was dead, having been suffocated by the large amount of clothing put upon it to protect it from the cold

SHOCKING ACCIDENT AT SEARSPORT Last Saturday, Mrs. Hartford leaving home and her three children, Francis, ten years old, took a gun which had been left loaded with ball, put on a percussion cap, not knowing it was loaded and exclaimed to the other children that he was going to fire Going into the room to see him fire, the gun was discharged, when Ida, aged three years got in range, the ball going through her head, killing her instantly The little brother who thus carelessly and thoughtlessly slew his little sister is described as suffering great agony and nearly thrown into fits

☞ The little girls who made the quilt mentioned in the Whig a few days since, were Anna Pond and Laura Brown Their names were inserted wrong before

BRADLEY TOWN OFFICERS Clerk, Samuel F Harrison, Selectmen, Samuel F Harrison, J F Norris, Francis Blackman

NARROW ESCAPE We learn from the Portland Argus that as the wife and son of Stephen Harmon were walking on the track of Y & C R R in Buxton last Thursday, they were overtaken by the outward bound train The boy succeeded in climbing the snow, which was some eight feet in hight, and getting off the track.—The mother being unable to escape in the same manner, leaned over as far as she could—the whole train grazing her, and tearing her clothes nearly all off her person

☞ At Belfast on Monday last, Hon. James P. White was re-elected Mayor without opposition.

☞ We learn from the Belfast Journal that the ship Northern Chief, Veazie, from New York for Liverpool, has been abandoned at sea. The Bermuda mail steamer Merlin picked up the crew. The Northern Chief was 1157 tons register, built at Belfast in 1852. The following composed her cargo—8970 barrels flour, 517 tierces of beef, 600 barrels pork, 267,458 lbs of lard, 46,240 hams, 559,587 pounds bacon, 28,740 pounds cheese, 24,000 pounds tallow, 118 bags clover seed.

Among the letters found by our soldiers in the rebel camp in Roanoke Island, was one from a young lady in the South, to her lover in the rebel army, in which she says "I hope we will see him with his head off before long. If we can't, I hope we shall see him with his tail off. I hope we shall see him so Yankee."

TEACHERS FOR THE CONTRABANDS Some sixty persons, fifteen of whom are ladies, sailed with agent Pierce from New York, to become teachers of the freed negroes to Port Royal — Among the ladies is Mrs. Harlan, wife of Senator Harlan of Iowa. Nearly half the teachers are from Boston and vicinity, and go under the auspices of the educational commission The Atlantic, which conveys the expedition, takes out with her a large cargo, consisting of army stores, agricultural implements, seeds, clothing, sewing machines and numerous contributions towards the success of the object.

LOSS ON BOARD THE FRIGATE CONGRESS Paymaster McKean Buchanan of the Union frigate Congress, which was engaged and burned in the recent naval action, gives the following as the numerical list of the souls on board the Congress at the time of the battle—

The regular sailors numbered 277 There was one company of Coast Guard men, numbering 88, marines 47, officers 22, total 434

After the frigate was destroyed, and all the survivors had collected on shore at Fortress Monroe, they numbered as follows

Sailors and Coast Guard,	196
Marines,	35
Passengers from the frigate from Fortress Monroe to Newport News,	40
Seamen taken from the frigate on board the rebel tugs as prisoners,	40
Total,	311

Twenty nine men were wounded, and 14 killed in the action

Twenty thousand dollars in gold and Treasury notes were destroyed by the burning, together with all the stores

THE MONITOR'S VOYAGE TO FORTRESS MONROE Steamer Seth Low towed the Monitor to Fortress Monroe When they made the Delaware Capes the sea was heavy and broke over the Monitor Colors were set Union down — Steamer headed N W five hours to keep her head to the sea. Gunboats Etchem and Currituck were in sight but unable to render assistance When the wind moderated the Seth Low and Monitor proceeded

The Monitor cost $275,000, and her first labor has been equivalent to saving many hundred times that sum The original cost of such vessels is hardly one-half that of common first class frigates, while they are not liable, as our frigates are, to decay, and consequently will cost little for repairs It is held that, on the score of economy alone, keeping efficiency out of the question, the best policy of our government will be to have a sufficient supply of iron-clad ships and floating batteries as soon as they can be constructed

The Evacuation of Centreville and Manasses—Appropriation for Manufacture of Monster Cannon—Winchester Evacuated—Burnside on his Guard—The Merrimac Repairing at Norfolk—Important News from Memphis—General Bragg Arrives with Ten Thousand Men.

NEW YORK, 13th

It appears that the retreat from Centreville commenced as late as last Friday, and was at first conducted in a very orderly manner It was only when the rear of the army was leaving Manassas that the panic began, caused by the fact that some over excited rebels had already set fire to some railroad bridges beyond Then the rebels began to burn and destroy and run away in the greatest confusion

General Jackson and half his army left Winchester a week ago, and went by the railroad to Manassas, while the other half are reported to be moving southward along the valley of the Shenandoah

The Tribune's Washington despatch says that the Naval Committee of the Senate agreed to day to recommend an appropriation of $200,000 for the construction of furnaces for the manufacture of 20 inch Dahlgren guns

John Lewis, the gunner s mate who covered the powder magazine with his body at Elizabeth City, risking his life to save others, has been made a gunner

The Star of this evening, whose editor has long owned a plantation near Culpepper Court House and is well acquainted with the surrounding country, says, 'We have positive information that the rebels have retreated as far as Gordonsville. Our scouts have probably penetrated the country at an early hour this morning as far as Culpepper Court House, 35 miles in the rear of Manassas"

The Times' Washington despatch says the statement published, that last week a council of war in Washington decided, eight to four, that the army of the Potomac could not be moved against the enemy at present, is entirely untrue The generals were unanimous that an advance was possible and proper The only difference was as to the plan of the proposed attack

WINCHESTER, Va, 12th

This celebrated town is at length recovered for the Union The movement of our forces to Berrysville and a reconnoissance to this vicinity completely succeeded in blinding the enemy, and misleading them so that they did not know where to expect an attack

The consequence was that yesterday afternoon they commenced evacuating the place General Hamilton in the meantime, advanced from Bunker Hill, the michigan cavalry leading the way Twelve hundred of the enemy's cavalry gave battle, supported by a section of artillery A brittalion of the 1st Maryland regiment reinforced our cavalry, and one of our sections of artillery came up and replied to the enemy's guns The fight was soon over The enemy fled, leaving their guns, two in number, several horses, and about 30 men killed and wounded

A large amount of stores, ammunition, provisions, and many horses, fell into our hands

PROVIDENCE, 13th

A letter received here from a man in Burnside s division, and dated Roanoke Island, 3d inst announces that the report that the rebels were evacuating Manassas had reached there General Burnside will therefore be on his guard

WINCHESTER, Va, 12th

The other column of General Banks' division, which is approaching by the Berryville route, has not yet arrived Not a shot has been fired Yesterday the rebels arrested 80 of the most prominent Unionists and sent them to Richmond

Coffee is selling at from 75c to $1, sugar from 20 to 37c, calicos 50c Other articles more abundant It is represented by residents, friends of the Union, that at least two thirds of the population of this town and county are loyal to our government, but have been compelled to succumb to the secession pressure, so far as expressions were concerned

Whiskey is $2 a pint, and other liquors in the same proportion

It is supposed that there is a large rebel force at Strasburg, and that they intend to make a stand there

FORTRESS MONROE, 19th

The steamer Merrimac is afloat at the Norfolk Navy Yark, and a large force of workmen is employed in repairs Serious damage was received by one of the prongs on the bow, and the forward part of the boat was stove in That part is now being strengthened

The people of Norfolk are said to be in a state of mingled fear and rejoicing

Lieut W N Jeffers is now in command of the Monitor

BALTIMORE, 13th

All the correspondents at Fortress Monroe, except the Associated Press Agent, have been ordered away by Gen Wool for failing to comply with his instructions in regard to news. All came on the boat to-day The Associated Press dispatches thence, hereafter will have the sanction of Gen Wool

ST LOUIS, 13th

A special despatch to the Democrat from Cairo 12th says a gentleman who left Memphis Saturday and arrived here this morning, reports many persons were leaving the city Cotton, molasses sugar and other articles of merchandise are being shipped down the river The policy of burning the city was still discussed. Speeches were made every night and all means used to check the unprecedented demoralization and to excite a war spirit

Gen Bragg had come up from Pensacola with 10 000 men These were sent to reinforce New Madrid and Island No 10

Generals Bragg and Beauregard were at Jackson, Tenn, constructing fortifications and all the negroes in the country are called out to work on them

Martial law had been proclaimed in Memphis last Monday for the purpose of checking insubordination and to compel the citizens to turn out to fight No defensive preparations are being made between there and New Orleans

Forts Randolph and Pillow are strong positions but less formidable than Columbus The rebels confess that the reduction of these two places will give us all the points on the Mississippi Their gunboats are all at Island No 10, and carry rifled 74 and 32 pounders. The fleet is under command of Captain Hollins

The New York World thinks it highly important that, before the Merrimac goes out to engage us again, we should be better prepared to meet and overpower her, and that if the Monitor could tow a small stone fleet into and block ade the Norfolk channel, we could have time to finish another iron clad gunboat before the obstruct on could be removed, if indeed her guns could not altogether prevent their removal.

M Emile Duval, of Lyons, France, says that he has, in person, found relief in sciatic cases, after other means had been tried in vain, from the use of a mixture of equal parts of chloroform and laudanum, a little having been introduced on a piece of cotton. The first effect produced is a sensation of cold, then there is numbness, followed by a strongly tingling pain and refreshing sleep.

(Signed) EDWIN M STANTON,
Secretary of War

WASHINGTON, 13

The Government Contract Investigating Committee are scattered—Mr Dawes at Boston, Col Van Wyck and Mr Fenton at at New York, probably examining into the fees and perquisites of the Federal officers in those cities, and the affairs of the Custom Houses generally Several of the other members are in the West

Accounts received tonight from the Virginia side represent nothing of especial interest among our troops

According to the statement of one of our officers a masked battery of three guns was discovered yesterday on the Warrenton turnpike between Centreville and Bull Run

The report made from the Roads and Canals Committee, to day, accompanying the bill for increased railroad facilities etween New York and Washington, sets forth that the exigencies of the government requires additional and more speedy communication, that the lines should be inland and safe from foreign invasion, to which the shore line is everywhere exposed. This want they say, can be supplied by finishing the Reading and Columbia road and the committee accordingly recommended that the Secretary of the Treasury be authorized to endorse on the first mortgage It binds the guarantee of the payment of the principal and interest to the extent of $450,000, $225,000 to be paid on the completion of half the road, and the remainer on its completion

Col Kerrigan, who was recently involuntarily relieved from this military command, took his seat in the House to-day for the first time this session

WINCHESTER, 12

This afternoon a squadron of the Michigan cavalry pursued Ashby's cavalry several miles A skirmish ensued nine miles hence on the Strasburg road The Michiganders took six prisoners, including 2d Lieut Murray of Ashby's corps.

When the rebel Jackson evacuated this town he left unmolested the railroad and rolling stock consisting of five locomotives, four passenger cars and four train freight cars

A train of cars will start early in the morning for Harper s Ferry to obtain commissary supplies.

The telegraph line to Leesburg has just been completed, making complete connection to all points

A number of deserters have given themselves up

The advance this morning was planned and led by senior Brigadier General Hamilton, with the impression that our approach would be strongly resisted, and it would have proved successful against Jackson's resistance.

Yesterday Colonel Mix, of the Van Allen cavalry, with a squadron, pounced upon a party of rebel cavalry four miles west of Berryville, while they were breakfasting, wounding three, and took them prisoners

WINCHESTER, 18—Noon

Heavy explosions were heard here at 10 last night from the direction of Strasburg, which are believed to have been caused by the enemy blowing up the Stone Ore and Bridge over Cedar Creek, to prevent our pursuit of Jackson's force.

An skirmish last night in Strasburg road was led by Major Mix of Van Allen cavalry. He pounced Ashby's picket posts, still he came upon their main body [illegible] a Baltimorean.

Last night was acknowledged by secession ladies to have been the most quiet for six months. Several thousand soldiers were in town and the remark was made,—"No wonder you are victorious, from the excellent discipline of your troops."

Colonel Leonard of the Massachusetts 13th has been detailed for Provost duty by General Hamilton

Two locomotives, surmounting the stars and stripes, with a long train of cars, started for Harper s Ferry at nine o clock this morning It conveyed a large military mail.

The strong cavalry scout last night failed to overtake Ashby's retreating regiment on the Strasburg road It is believed he rejoined Jackson at Strasburg A few of his scouts may yet remain this side of Cedar Creek

Among the distinguished persons here, is Mrs Bandridge, late Mrs. Bliss, daughter of the late President Taylor Her husband is an officer in the rebel service

Col Fauntleroy, a Brigadier General of the rebel Virginia troops, effected his escape hence on Tuesday upon our approach

ST LOUIS, 12th

The Republican has advices from Albuquerque in New Mexico, February 28d, which states that the Texans made various significant movements in the vicinity of Fort Craig

It was reported that the Texans had eight pieces of artillery placed in a battery masked in a ravine, but a short distance from where the skirmish took place

On the 19th and 20th the Texans crossed to the east banks of the Rio Grande, in order, it is supposed to take possession of heights opposite Fort Craig Colonel Canby crossed and pursued them in force, when the Texans on the heights fired some fifty cannon shot, without damage to our forces Colonel Canby fired but two shots, deeming it imprudent to waste his ammunition

On the morning of the 21st, 200 Texan mules were captured, with their wagons and masters.

The Texans are on the high land, and are destitute of water Colonel Canby has the pass to the water guarded by a battery and 1200 men, and all the other outlets are also guarded in force The Texans must either fight desperately for water, or surrender

LATER When the Express closed on the morning of the 21st, the booming of cannon was heard at Val Verde, announcing that the battle had begun

LATEST A military express has just arrived from Fort Craig with the news of serious conflicts between our forces and the Texans, which lasted from nine o clock in the morning of the 21st, until sun down of the same day

The fight commenced in the morning between a portion of our troops under Colonel Roberts, and the enemy across the Rio Grande, with varied success until one or two o clock of that day, the 21st Colonel Canby then crossed the river in force, with a battery of six pieces under Capt. Crag of the cavalry, but detailed to the command of the battery Colonel Canby also took with him a small battery of two howitzers The enemy was supposed to have had eight field pieces

The battle was commenced by our artillery and skirmishers, and soon became general To wards evening the guns of the enemy were silenced They however made a desperate charge on our howitzer battery, but were repulsed with great loss Captain Crag s battery was defended by Plimpton's company of U S infantry and a portion of Col Pinos s regiment of New Mexicans

The Texans now charged desperately and furiously, with picked men about 600 strong on Crag's battery The were armed with carbines, revolvers and long 7 pound bowie knives After discharging their carbines at close quarters they drew their revolvers, and reached the battery amid a storm of grape and canister The New Mexicans of Col Pinos s regiment became panic stricken and ingloriously fled Capt. Plimpton with the U S Infantry, stood their ground and fought nobly until more than one half were numbered with the dead With his artillerymen cut down and his support killed, wounded or flying from the field, Capt Crag sat down calmly and quietly on one of his guns, and with revolver in hand refusing to fly or desert his post, he fought to the last, and gloriously died like a hero, the last man at his guns

The Texans suffered terribly in this desperate charge and many of our officers greatly distinguished themselves

Major Donaldson, who was chief aide to Col Canby, acted bravely, and was conspicuous in every part of the field His horse was wounded in several places, but the Major escaped uninjured

Kit Carson was in command of a regiment of volunteers who were deployed as skirmishers.—His command did good service during the action and behaved well

We have to lament the loss of Lieutenants Mickler and Stone, who, like Captain Crag, nobly and bravely maintained the honor of our flag to the last, and died the death of patriots.—Many others of our officers are wounded Our loss is about 200 killed and wounded The loss of the enemy is believed to be much greater — The confidence is reported in Col. Canby, and if the volunteers will do their duty, the Texans will be ignominiously driven from the country

WASHINGTON, 13th.

Gen Halleck has telegraphed the following

"St Louis 13th

To Hon E M Stanton

Our artillery and cavalry yesterday attacked the enemy's works, over half a mile west of Paris, Tenn The enemy was driven out with a loss of 100 killed, wounded, and prisoners Our loss is Capt. Bull of the artillery, and four men killed, and four wounded

A cavalry force sent out from Lebanon, Mo, attacked one of Price's guerilla parties killing 12, wounding 5, and capturing over 20 prisoners, among whom was Brigadier General Campbell, the commander"

SPRINGFIELD, Mo 11

A special to the Republican says a messenger arrived at 10 o'clock last night, bringing additional news of the battle.

The engagement took place on Little Sugar Creek, where a skirmish took place on their march down. In anticipation of an attack on the south side, Gen Curtis ordered the trains to be drawn up on the north side, but unexpectedly the attack was commenced the rear of our army by fifteen hundred to two thousand rebel cavalry

General Sigel, with 800 men, protected the train, and for several hours alternated, retreating and stopping, to hold the rebels in check while the trains pushed backwards to the main bodies of the army While thus engaged, Gen Sigel was three time surrounded, but cut his way through each time

The principal fighting on Thursday was done by General Sigel In this way on Friday the engagement became general, and continued so throughout, the officers behaving with much gallantry

The most exposed positions were occupied by Colonel Carey's division, and the greatest loss was suffered by them.

Lieut. Smith of the 2d Ohio battery, who was taken prisoner, jumped from a wagon to make his escape, and was killed Five rebel officers killed and wounded are Brig Gen McCulloch killed, Brig General Slack, dangerously wounded; Col McIntosh, killed, Lt B H Rives, 3d regiment volunteers, dangerously wounded; Col Herbert of the 3d Louisiana, killed or dangerously injured.

Major General Sterling Price was slightly wounded.

Thirteen pieces of artillery were captured by our men. Among them one [illegible] by Gen. Sigel at Sugar Creek.

[illegible] 800 killed and [illegible] a Baltimorean.

A large number of prisoners were taken, probably 1500

Two thousand Indians were engaged in the fight, and 18 of our dead were scalped by them.

Gen Jeff C. Davis is after Price.

FORTRESS MONROE, 13th

The rebels commenced yesterday a small work of logs and sand at Sewall's Point, apparently for the protection of a single gun It was first discovered there on Saturday last.

The 7th New York regiment went out on a scout from Newport News this morning, and drove in the enemy's picket up James river

The new gunboat Dacotah arrived to day from Boston

[Approved by Major General Wool.]

ST LOUIS, 13th

General Order No 2 from the Department of the Mississippi, states that martial law has never been declared legally in Missouri, except in the city of St. Louis, and in the immediate vicinity of the railroad and telegraph lines, and even in these localities, military officers are specially directed not to interfere with the lawful process of any loyal civil court It is believed the time will soon come when the rebellion in Missouri may be considered terminated, and by none is this more desired than by the general commanding

The order also states that evidence has been received at head quarters that Maj Gen Sterling Price has issued commissions or licences to certain bandits in this State, authorizing them to raise a guerilla force, for the purposes of plunder and marauding Gen Price ought to know that such a course is contrary to the rules of civilized warfare, and that every man who enlists in such an organization, forfeits his life, and becomes an outlaw All persons are hereby warned that if they join any guerilla band they will not, if captured, be treated as ordinary prisoners of war, but will be hung as robbers and murderers Their lives shall atone for the barbarity of their General.

NEW YORK, 13th

The schooner A H Manchester arrived from Port Royal this evening with 3000 bales of cotton

WASHINGTON, 18th

A company of about 25 contrabands from the region of country which was recently evacuated by the rebels, arrived here to-day They report that the resident sympathizers with the rebels are hurrying their negroes South

The only confirmation by the Senate to day was that of Daniel Tyler of Connecticut as Brigadier General of volunteers

SENATE

Mr Dixon offered a resolution that the Committee on Naval Affairs be instructed to inquire what was necessary to be done in regard to John Davis whose distinguished bravery has been brought to the notice of the Government by the report of Commodore Dupont Adopted

Mr Kennedy offered a resolution that the Secretary of the Navy inform the Senate by what law the Naval Academy was removed to Newport, R I, and the reasons for such removal, and whether such reasons still exist.

The resolution expressing the thanks of Congress to Com Foote, officers and men, of the Western flotilla, was taken up Mr Grimes spoke in favor of the resolution The resolution passed

HOUSE

The House, in the Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the tax bill.

Mr Richardson of Ill, moved an amendment that two per cent. of the revenue derived from the bill shall be set apart for the purpose of buying or obtaining territory outside of the limits of the United States, in which to colonize free blacks and the payment of the expenses of transportation thither

Mr Morrill of Vt, raised a point of order that the amendment was not according to the first section of the bill, which provides for the appointment of officers necessary to carry it into effect.

A proposition to collect Federal taxes through State machinery, was for a long time discussed, one side contending that it would be cheaper and better, and the other that it was wholly impracticable and worthless.

The proposition was subsequently withdrawn, and the Committee rose

Mr Johnson, from Committee on roads and Canals, reported a bill to secure increased railroad facilities between New York and Washington. It was recommitted

Mr May, from the Judiciary Committee, reported a bill providing for the discharge of state prisoners and for the courts of the United States to take bail to recognizances to secure trial of the same

The bill was recommitted.

THE "MONITOR" AFTER THE BATTLE.—A correspondent of a New York journal paid a visit to the Monitor on Monday, the day after her battle with the Merrimac, and thus describes the effects of the contest upon her —

"Two shots of the enemy struck her on the edge, above the surface, and tore up a few inches of the deck plating, and penetrating about half the diameter of the ball affording a complete illustration of her impregnability As the worst the enemy, with the most powerful guns afloat, could do, the fact settles all question on that point. The shots referred to are as mere scratches on a pugilist after his antagonist has done his best for four hours to knock him down On her tower, where the Merrimac's shot struck square and with full force there are three or four indentions, not exceeding three inches in depth Her deck is blazed in several places where shots struck and glanced off The wheel house has several similar indentations, though not so deep These are all the marks the Monitor bears as the result of the action. The officers and men declare that they are perfectly willing to take her anywhere, for all the enemy s guns can do, no matter with what skill they may be served

The Merrimac undertook to run the Monitor down, and ran bows on, her prow projected over her deck The shock that cut the Cumberland and Congress down, made an indentation scarcely perceptible and produced no extraordinary effect In this attitude the two ships exchanged shots, the mouths of their guns being but a few yards distant, and it was here that the Merrimac was penetrated, though the Monitor was scarcely scratched It was doubtless the intention of the enemy to board her, and some of the Merrimac's men actually jumped aboard of her But there was no opening or place of entrance to be found nor were there any men to be seen At this moment the tower began to revolve and the ports to open, and the men scampered back, and the Merrimac drew off probably confounded at the results of her hasty visit"

MISSING LEGISLATURE The St Louis Republican asks what has become of the Tennessee Legislature? Is it strayed or stolen—lost or mislaid? Has it gone on a bender, and not recovered from its headache? Have most of the members prorogued themselves and sought the retirac y and seclusion of private life? What has become of the Tennessee Legislature? When Donelson tumbled and toppled into the hands of Gen Grant, with its garrison—when Clarksville surrendered—when Sidney Johnson told the trembling Harris that Commodore Foote was on his way to Nashville with his gunboats—there was hurrying to and fro in Tennessee s capital, and much whispering with white lips among the Senators and Representatives Before the citizens knew what was the matter, and while the pious among them were wending their reverent way to the House of God, Gov Harris and the Legislature seized their carpet bags and took a special train. On the morning of that Sabbath day the General Assembly met at the State House and resolved to adjourn The members very soon thereafter left They retreated, panoosed, toddled out stick crowded and ran off skedaddled The popular understanding confirmed by an official proclamation by the Governor, was that the functionary wisdom of the State would bring up in Memphis Suddenly that city was largely reinforced with inhabitants The hotels were crowded, the boarding houses filled and the streets swarmed with a greatly augmented population The time came for the Legislature to assemble The State had been invaded by Lincoln's butchers, and no moment was to be lost in providing ways and means for resistance But if the time came, the Legislature didn t With all the drumming, all the vigilance and activity of the Sergeant at arms up to the last instant no quorum could be obtained in either House The Tennessee Senate mustered but ten members, and of the Representatives in the other branch fifty were absent, including the honorable Speaker, at our latest dates In view of these facts, are we not justified in propounding the inquiry with which we have begun this paragraph?

REMARKABLE HEROISM If to deserve success is better than ofteutimes to gain it then Lieutenant Maurice and the gallant crew of the ill fated Cumberland merit the admiration and thanks of the whole loyal country The sight of such an invulnerable monster as the Merrimac bearing straight down upon a wooden vessel, not in the least affected by half a dozen heavy broadsides would have unnerved many a crew But it had no effect on the gallant sailors of the Cumberland They kept up their rapid firing till the iron monster crashed her horn into the side of the Cumberland, knocking in a hole as large as the head of a hogshead Even then, while the water was rushing in like a flood, and the vessel going down, and the Medrimac, at the distance of three hundred yards, was pouring in murderous broadsides, the men fought till the last gun was submerged The fight continued three quarters of an hour, and the firing of the Cumberland s guns was so accurate that when one of the Merrimac's crew crept out of a port to the outside of her plated roof, a ball instantly cut him in two! We do not believe that there is an action on record which shows more heroic fighting than this hopeless one on the part of the Cumberland She has now in fifty four feet of water with the stars and stripes still flying from her topmast, but a grateful country will honor her commander and her decimated crew

HOW TO SAVE YOUR EYES By sitting in such a position as will allow the light to fall obliquely over the shoulder while reading or sewing

By not using the eyes for such purposes by an artificial light, especially gas light.

By avoiding the special use of the eyes in the morning before breakfast

By resting them for half a minute while reading or sewing, or looking at things at a distance or up to the sky, relief is immediately felt by so doing

Never pick any collected matter from the eye lashes or corners of the eye with the finger nails, rather moisten it and roll it away carefully with the ball of the finger

Keep the feet warm and never cool the head suddenly under penalty of inflammation of the eyes

It is better to bathe the eyes on the outside at night than morning, but it will not do harm to bathe them both morning and evening.

The moment the eye feels tired, the moment you are conscious of an effort to read or sew, lay aside the book or needle and take a walk for an hour, or employ yourself at some active exercise not requiring the close use of your eyes. —Scientific American.

HEARING A GHOST "B'lieve in ghosts? of course I do," said the widow Tough, "my poor husband appeared to me just as plain—"

"Did you see him?" her hearers asked, in open mouthed astonishment.

"No, I didn't see him," said the widow, "but I heard him" He went to the cupboard and took down the tea pot and drank from it just as he used to and then he went to work at the stove I laid and heard it, but thought it was one of the boys"

"Who's there?" said I, but there was no answer

What are you doing there, "said I

"That's my business," said a voice that I knew to be my husband s, because he always spoke in that pleasant way I got up, and there wasn't nobody there"

The teeth of her auditors chattered

Cool off very slowly after all forms of exercise the neglect of this lights up the fires of three fourths of all the diseases which afflict humanity Cool off slowly by putting on more clothing than while exercising instead of laying aside some, even a hat or a bonnet go to a closed room rather than sit or stand out of doors sit by a good fire rather than an open window, at all events keep in motion in such a way as to allow the perspiration or any extra warmth, to disappear very gradually indeed

The Duke of Bridgwater observed that although the men dropped work promptly as the bell rang when he was not by they were not nearly so punctual in resuming work some straggling in many minutes after time He asked the reason and the men s excuse was that though they could always hear the clock when it struck twelve they could not so readily hear it when it only struck one On this the duke had the mechanism of the clock altered so as to make it strike thirteen at one o'clock, which it continues to do until this day —Lives of the Engineers

REMARKABLE CASE OF FECUNDITY We were recently informed of the most remarkable case of fecundity in woman we ever remember to have heard The wife of a well known New York merchant gave birth to a child July 24, 1858, June 30, 59, March 29, 60, she gave birth to twins March 1 61 she had triplets and Feb 13 62 she gave birth to four making 12 children in about forty two months Our informant is a merchant in this city, and we are assured that the statement is perfectly reliable.—New Bedford Standard

One of the correspondents of the Paris Debats gives the following as a curious specimen of the police authorities of Warsaw being a permission signed by the Prefect of the Police "I authorize the bearer of the present card M ——— to carry a cane even with an iron ferrule at the end and this on account of his advanced age and the weakness of his legs PRESIDENT"

BOOTS AND SHOES

MADE ON

PLUMER'S PATENT ANATOMICAL LASTS!

(From J V C Smith, M D, formerly Mayor of Boston)

PLUMER'S PATENT BOOTS.

The Undersigned has worn a pair of these Improved Boots, and feels grateful to the Inventor for the comfort derived from them The nice adjustment of the sole to every part of the under surface of the foot is an important circumstance which seems to have been entirely overlooked till Dr Plumer planned his Last and Boot upon truly scientific principles

Those who have once had an opportunity to test the real advantages of these Philosophically made Boots, will hardly be reconciled to wear any other

J V C SMITH

Boston July 25 1861

J C PLUMER, M D

Dear Sir- I am greatly delighted with your newly invented boots which I have worn during the past winter and only wonder that the world should have been so stupid as not to have made the discovery half a century ago Any one with a grain of common sense and a moments reflection cannot fail to see that your "PATENT BOOTS AND SHOES" are perfectly adapted to the foot (that wonderful piece of Nature's Mechanism,) giving to every portion of it a full and equal support, and I am sure that those who once make trial of your new invention will never go back to the old fashioned boots or shoes, which are so pile of Corns Bunions and a thousand other ills. Your Patent Boots seems to be part and parcel of our Physical structure supporting the tooth only, giving steadiness to the foot and promoting health and comfort to an eminent degree, especially in walking over rough surfaces

I wish I knew by some means in my power I could make known to every man woman and child in Christendom the great importance of your invention. Very truly yours

Dear Sir Having learned the principle upon which your Anatomical Last is made I was favorably impressed as to its efficiency in relieving difficulty which all have experienced who have to walk considerably via severe pain in the foot after much walking After having worn a pair made up on the Anatomical last, I found my anticipations more than realized I can walk nearly all day without any inconvenience the above named difficulty in the lower degree I also escaped the entaining process of breaking in my boots for they were as easy at first as after they had been worn

Prof Wood—Dear Sir In the latter part of the year 1857 while attending the state and National Law School in Cincinnati New York my hair from an auburn took on the commenced falling off very rapidly so that in a short space of months the whole right part of the scalp was almost entirely bare and much of the remaining part on the left and back part of my head showed a light red and gray so that you will not be surprised when I tell you that upon my return to the State of Indiana my more casual acquaintances were not able at a loss to discover the cause of the change in my appearance as my more intimate acquaintance were to recognize me at all

I at once made application to the most celebrated physicians in the country but received no assurance from them that my hair would again be restored I was finally told to notice no longer my fate until fortunately in the latter part of the year I saw your Restorative advertisement and bought a drugg at a venture the use of the Hair Restorative I found on my great astonishment that it was producing the desired effect Since that time I have received scores dollars worth of your Restorative and as a result have a rich coat of very soft black hair which no money can buy
